Tideland appoints agent for Netherlands

Tideland Signal has appointed P. C. Jansen Marine Agencies B.V. as agent for its range of aids to marine navigation in the Netherlands, in addition to its existing role as Tideland agent for Germany and Belgium.

Located in Roden, near Groningen, P. C. Jansen has successfully represented Tideland in the two neighbouring territories since 2004. It will supply and support the entire Tideland range including buoys, beacons, lanterns and advanced electronic equipment such as racons and remote monitoring systems. Robin Jansen, the company's Managing Director, anticipates strong interest in Tideland's range of LED lanterns, including the new long-range MaxLED200 and the SolaLED self-contained model with integral solar modules and battery.

In addition to Tideland Signal, PC Jansen Marine Agencies represents several suppliers of lifting equipment, end-fittings for wire-rope, chains and accessories, cable handling equipment, rubber and foam-filled fenders, and bollards. Although centred in the area around the North Sea, the company is also active in the rest of Europe, West Africa, the Middle East and the Caspian Sea.

Tideland Signal has specialized in aids to marine navigation and solar generation for ports and harbours around the world for more than 50 years, as well as lighthouse authorities and commercial installations. The company designs, manufactures and assembles a comprehensive range of aids to navigation, from single lanterns to major navigation systems.

Tideland Signal is also a leading supplier of navigational aids to the offshore industry, providing practically every major operator around the world with advanced equipment including the latest Syncrolan IV multi-functional AtoN system, which is suitable for the largest production complexes.
